Fifty feet of . . .

. . . signatures

THOUSANDS OF signatures on a petition stretching more than 50 ft was all that stood between women of the Wages for Housework Women's Centre and the bailiffs today. The women are to be evicted from their squatted empty shop centre by Camden Council who want to rehabilitate the shop. Pleas for alternative premises have failed.

"The signatures bear witness to the need for a centre," says centre volunteer Ruth Hall. "We can't believe there is nowhere for us to go."
